AVIEM INTERNATIONAL ADDS TWO INDUSTRY LEADERS TO ITS EMERGENCY PLANNING & OPERATIONS STAFF

(Atlanta, GA) — Aviem International, Inc., a global leader in providing emergency response planning and consulting services, announces the addition of two industry leaders to its team.

Lamar McEwen and William A. "Bill" Durring, two former Delta managers with more than 70 years of combined experience in emergency preparedness & response planning, logistics, and management, have joined Aviem International's world headquarters in Atlanta, Jeff Morgan, Aviem's president and CEO, announced today.

McEwen joins Aviem as Vice President of Operations after a 31-year career at Delta, most recently serving as manager of Emergency Planning and Operations. Considered an industry expert in emergency planning and response, McEwen will work with Aviem's clients to ensure they have an effective emergency response plan and will also ensure that Aviem is at optimum readiness and fully prepared to support its clients should disaster strike any where in the world.

Durring joins Aviem as Director of Emergency Response Planning and Logistics. After serving 20 years in strategic planning with the United States Air Force, Durring joined Delta's technical operations team in 1989. For the past several years, his responsibilities at Delta have included the recruitment, training and organization of the airline's 1,300 plus family assistance Care Team.

"Bill and Lamar both bring not only expertise in development of "best practice" emergency response plans, but significant experience in responding to disaster worldwide," Morgan said. Both men were called upon to assist the airlines and affected families of the Swiss Air Flight 111 and Comair Flight 5191 accidents.

"Our clients rely on Aviem's expertise to ensure that, should the unthinkable happen and an accident or incident affect their company, we've thought out every detail required to provide their customers and employees with an immediate, professional and compassionate response," Morgan added. "In our business, there simply is no substitute for experience, so it's exciting to have two such seasoned leaders as Bill and Lamar join Aviem's team."
